DEATH CAUSED BY SEVEN JOY RIDERS

T. J. Gass and Entire Family
Pinned Under Machine
at East Whately

MEN RESPONSIBLE
HURRIED FROM SCENE

Baby in the Gass Family Killed and Boy of 14 Seriously Injured — All Efforts to Find Car Which Caused the Smash Unavailing.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Oct. 2. — Joy riders killed a baby and sped away, leaving the automobile party of Thomas J. Gass, a Greenfield carpenter, a wreck beside the state road in East Whately yesterday afternoon. The accident happened when a party of seven young men rushing south tried to pass the Gass machine, which was going in the same direction. The joy riders jammed the right side of their car against Mr. Gass's five-passenger Reo, hooked a front hub off the Reo and flung the light machine in air. The Gass car lit upside down in the farmyard of Michael Halloran. Women living nearby pulled Mr. and Mrs. Gass and their four children out. The 18-month-old baby boy was dead with a broken neck. Alfred, 14 years old, was unconscious. The others were bruised and shocked. Down the road the attacking car had disappeared in a cloud of dust.

All the available description of the joy riders and their seven-passenger automobile was sent broadcast over the country late in the afternoon, and William A. Davenport, a Greenfield lawyer, who happened upon the scene of the wreck immediately after the accident, offered $100 for evidence leading to the arrest of the seven. Seven-passenger cars filled with young men were stopped in half a dozen places about the western end of the state last night, but no arrests were made.

Nobody saw the fatal crash except the two automobile parties involved, so far as could be learned last night. Tourists and farmers in both directions along the state road from Halloran's told of seeing a large touring car with several young men aboard, each of them with a gray cap turned with visor to the back, searching the highway from Greenfield southward. A Polish farmer two miles south of the Halloran home reported that a party of several young fellows raced down the road as far as his farm, stopped, removed their number plate and tore off down the road to the south. This happened a few minutes after 2:30 p. m., the time of the crash.

When the Gass car with the family of six was thrown into the Halloran yard the women of Michael Halloran's household, hearing the crash, rushed out. With the help of other women from a neighboring house they lifted the Reo sufficiently to liberate the sufferers. The Gass baby died in the arms of Miss Catherine Halloran. Medical Examiner Wood of Northfield later examined the child and said its neck was broken. Automobile parties rapidly assembled at the Halloran farm and one party hurried Alfred, the injured boy, to Northampton, where he was said to be in a serious condition last night. His skull probably is not fractured and he is expected to live. A Polish doctor, Dr. J. G. Hanson, and Dr. Napoleon Holden of Whately were among the first arrivals after the accident. They administered what medical aid they could.

Attorney Davenport of Greenfield, who is offering the $100 reward for the wild riders, took Mr. and Mrs. Gass and the two uninjured boys to the home of Mr. Gass's brother, in South Deerfield. Mr. and Mrs. Gass went back to their home at 259 Silver street, Greenfield, last night with the two uninjured boys, Herbert, 11, and Robert, 9, while the police of all the cities and towns were searching for the car which caused the accident.

POSTMISTRESS AT FERRISBURG ROBBED

Miss Mooney Assaulted While on Her Way Home — Thief Grabbed Satchel Containing $200.

VERGENNES, Oct. 2. — Shortly after 8 o'clock Friday evening, Miss Catherine Mooney, postmistress at North Ferrisburg, was assaulted and robbed of $200 while on her way from the postoffice to her home, a distance of an eighth of a mile. The postoffice is located in the Allen building in the center of the town. Elmer A. Preston, who conducts a general store, occupies a part of the building.

Miss Mooney closed the office at the usual hour and started for home. She was carrying in one hand a small satchel, in which were the postoffice funds and in the other, an umbrella. She had not gone more than 20 rods from the store when some person approached her from the rear, struck her on the head, snatched the satchel and escaped into the darkness. Miss Mooney, although dazed by the blow, managed to reach the Preston store, where a searching party was immediately organized.

A thorough search for the thief followed, but the pouring rain and intense darkness aided him to escape. Miss Mooney's head was cut from the blow, but she was able to be on duty at the office Saturday. No clew for tracing the robber has yet been obtained.

SENATOR CLARKE DEAD.

President Pro Tempore of Senate Stricken with Paralysis.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 2. — United States Senator James P. Clarke of Arkansas died here yesterday after an illness of four days. Senator Clarke, 62 years old, was re-elected to a term not ending until March 3, 1921.

Senator Clarke, one of the two Democratic senators who voted against the Adamson eight-hour law, had been president pro tempore of the senate since the Democrats gained control of that body in 1913. Presiding over the senate in the absence of Vice-President Marshall during the closing sessions, he was in the chair when the Adamson measure was passed, but, refusing to sign it, appointed Senator Hughes to take his place when the legislation was presented for the presiding official's signature. The Arkansas senator was known for his independence, exemplified in other occasional revolts against party measures.

He was first elected to the senate in 1903, after having been a member of the Arkansas legislature, a representative in congress, lieutenant governor, attorney general and governor of Arkansas. Senator Clarke was the ranking Democratic member of the foreign relations and military affairs committees.

He was born in Yazoo City, Miss., in the county where Senator Williams lives.

BISHOP LAYS CORNER STONE.

New Catholic High School Building at Burlington.

BURLINGTON, Oct. 2. — The corner stone of Burlington's new Catholic high school building was laid Sunday afternoon by Rt. Rev. J. J. Rice, bishop of the diocese of Burlington, in the presence of more than 3,000 persons. The bishop was assisted by clergy of the neighboring parishes and there were present as invited guests city officials, members of the faculty of the University of Vermont and teachers of the city's schools.

Preceding the ceremony a service was held in St. Mary's Cathedral. Bishop Rice delivered a short address. A sermon was delivered by Rt. Rev. Mgr. Cassidy, vicar general, of Fall River, Mass. Bishop Rice laid the corner stone with a silver trowel, on which is engraved a picture of the school building and on the back the date of the laying of the corner stone and the name of Bishop Rice. The trowel will be given as a souvenir to the person making the largest donation to the building fund.

A BRILLIANT AURORA.

Many See a Fine Display in Northern Sky.

Many Brattleboro people witnessed the second brilliant aurora borealis of the fall Saturday night. The colors of the northern sky began as soon as darkness fell, arching the heavens from northwest to northeast with a bow of light and streaking the northern half of the black sky-dome with red and yellow and green streamers occasionally. Country people, unblinded by the glare of street lights, and automobilists travelling through the country got the fullest effect of the spectacle.

THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY

CAR DROPPED 30 FEET.

Injuries to Baby in Auto Accident at Woodstock May Be Serious.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 2. — A Cadillac car owned by Earl I. Thompson of this place and driven by his wife, went over a 30-foot embankment about three miles outside the town on the river road. Miss Thompson, a sister of the car's owner, suffered a sprained ankle, and the three-week-old Thompson baby is in the hospital at Hanover, N. H., with injuries which may prove serious. The other members of the party, including Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, their young boy and Mr. and Mrs. George Clark, escaped with slight injuries. The windshield, one fender and top of the car are badly damaged.
